UNITED INTERNATIONAL UNIVERSITY Department of English	Make-Up Mid-term Examination Trimester: Spring Year: 2026 Course Code: ENG 1013 | Course Title: English II
Time: 1 Hour 30 minutes	Full Marks: 30
Reading & Writing: 20	Listening & Speaking: 10

Note:

i. Students need to answer all the questions on the answer script, not on this question paper.
ii. The right-hand margin shows marks carried by individual questions.
iii. Any examinee found adopting unfair means will be expelled from the course, semester, or program as per the UIU disciplinary rules.

Part: A Reading Marks 12 (CO 2)

==========

Read the passage below and answer the following questions.

==========

In today's fast-paced professional world, the link between how employees feel and how much they achieve is stronger than ever. Motivation is the internal engine that drives people to reach their goals. It is the spark that turns a routine daily task into a meaningful contribution. When a team is truly motivated, they do not just check boxes or watch the clock until the end of the day. Instead they bring creativity, energy, and a sense of purpose to everything they do. This high level of engagement is what powers productivity, leading to better results, fewer mistakes, and a much stronger organization overall.

To understand how to keep people inspired, we have to look at where motivation actually comes from. Generally, it is divided into two main categories known as intrinsic and extrinsic motivation. Intrinsic motivation comes from within a person. It is the natural desire to learn a new skill, the pride of doing a job well, or the genuine joy found in the work itself. On the other hand, extrinsic motivation comes from outside rewards. This includes things like a competitive salary, year-end bonuses, or getting a public promotion. While a fair paycheck is absolutely essential to attract talented people, money alone is rarely enough to keep them performing at their best for many years.

Long-term success is usually fueled by intrinsic factors. Employees are far more likely to stay committed during difficult times when they feel they have autonomy and mastery. Autonomy means having some control over how they do their work, while mastery is the chance to get better at their specific craft. When workers feel a clear connection to the company's bigger mission, they view their labor as a part of a larger success story.

The atmosphere of the workplace plays a massive role in keeping that internal spark alive. A humane workplace is one that treats people like human beings rather than just tools used for profit. This type of environment prioritizes open communication, where people feel comfortable sharing ideas. It also focuses on psychological safety, meaning employees are not afraid to make mistakes or ask for help when they are stuck. Additionally, a healthy work-life balance ensures that the organization respects the fact that people have lives and families outside of their jobs.

When leaders take the time to recognize individual hard work and offer chances for professional growth, they build a culture of deep trust. This sense of belonging is the best defense against burnout and high turnover. When people feel valued and supported, they are much less likely to quit, which allows the company to keep its most experienced and passionate team members.

Ultimately, maximizing productivity is not about using pressure to force people to work harder. In fact, high-pressure environments often lead to stress and lower-quality work in the long run. Real productivity comes from creating the right conditions so that employees naturally want to do their best. By balancing fair pay with a supportive and respectful culture, organizations can unlock the full potential of their people. In a competitive global market, the ability to inspire a team remains the most valuable advantage.

1A. Choose and write the best option for the following questions. [0.50x4=2]

i. What is the main argument regarding productivity in the passage?
a) The only way to get more work done is to force people to work harder.
b) When employees are happy and motivated, they naturally do better work.
c) How employees feel has no effect on how much work they get done.
d) Money is the only thing that keeps people working well for a long time.

ii. What is "intrinsic motivation"?
a) Receiving a year-end performance bonus.
b) Being publicly recognized as "Employee of the Month."
c) Doing a job because you feel proud of your work.
d) Negotiating a higher starting salary for a new role.

iii. According to the passage, why is a "humane" workplace important?
a) It allows leaders to monitor employees more strictly.
b) It treats workers like machines or tools.
c) It cares about the well-being and feelings of its staff.
d) It ensures that all employees receive the exact same salary.

iv. What is the best way to get people to do their best work?
a) Using pressure to force them to work faster.
b) Creating a supportive environment where they feel valued.
c) Paying them the lowest salary possible.
d) Ignoring their ideas and feedback.

1B. In the context of the above passage, write the word that matches the suitable words in accordance with the definition provided below. [0.50x4=2]

Motivation Resilience Burnout Productivity

i. _____ the amount of work or results a person produces
ii. _____ the internal drive that makes someone want to act
iii. _____ a feeling of being extremely tired from too much work
iv. _____ the capacity to recover quickly from difficulties

1C. Write short answers to the following questions in your own words. [1+1+2=4]

i. How can a company make its workers more productive?

ii. Why is a high salary not enough for long-term happiness?

iii. In your opinion, why do happy workers make fewer mistakes than unhappy workers?

1D. In your own words, write a summary of the above passage. Copying word-for word (i.e., verbatim) from the text will result in getting reduced marks. [1x4=4]

Part B Writing Marks 08 (CO1)

==========

2A. The following paragraph contains four mistakes among the categories mentioned in the box below. You need to identify, write, and correct the mistakes. [0.5x4=2]

a. fragment b. run-on c. inconsistent verb tense d. irregular verb form e. subject verb agreement f. missing comma g. missing quotation marks h. missing article i. apostrophe mistake

On Friday, [1]Mark goed to the city museum for a school project. He loves learning about space and ancient fossils. The museum was very [2]crowded he had to wait in line to see the planetarium. Mark finally found the dinosaur hall and stared at the massive [3]T-Rex. Standing right in the middle of the room. He took out his notebook and [4]copies the display's facts for his report. It was a fascinating day.

2B. Write a paragraph in about 150 - 200 words on any one of the following topics. You must show the outline of your paragraph by writing the following. [1+5=6]

i. A place where I feel peaceful	(Descriptive)
ii. Organizing a successful event	(Process)
iii. An experience that changed my perspective	(Narrative)
iv. Daily life communications methods	(Classification or Division)

Topic:
Topic sentence:
Supporting point 1:
Supporting point 2:
Supporting point 3:
Concluding sentence:

3. Listening 5

4. Speaking 5

Best of Luck!

Answer Key:

1A. [0.50x4=2]
i. b) When employees are happy and motivated, they naturally do better work.
ii. c) Doing a job because you feel proud of your work.
iii. c) It cares about the well-being and feelings of its staff.
iv. b) Creating a supportive environment where they feel valued.

1B. [0.50x4=2]
i. productivity
ii. motivation
iii. burnout
iv. resilience

2A. [0.5x4=2]
i. d. irregular verb form: Mark went
ii. b. run-on: very crowded; he / very crowded. He
iii. a. fragment: T-Rex standing right in the middle of the room.
iv. c. inconsistent verb tense: copied